FOSCARINI

Tivu is inspired by the traditional TV screen; it is a lamp dedicated to the furnishing aesthetics and functional requirements of modern life. The rectangular body of the lamp, with rounded corners, is available in two different sizes in either a bold black or more neutral and recessive white. The light source is completely screened by a semi-transparent element through which light is diffused onto the wall and into the room. Double is also its personality: incisive and protagonist the black version, more neutral and camouflage the white one. Tivu enables a multiple of uses: the small version is suited for paths of light, beside a bed or above a mirror, while the large version has a more intense focal value, capable of adding character to a whole room. Suitable for both domestic and contract settings, innovative and familiar at the same time, tivu is set to become a new icon in the world of furniture and contemporary lifestyle.
